COMMENT OF THE DAY

New Soviet Move

RUSSIA'S latest move to reopen the question of an Austrian peace treaty is a typical piece of Soviet manoeuvring. Moscow deliberately ignores the Western Allies' note of June 11 pertaining to this subject, and instead makes a direct approach to Austria, combining what appears to be a generous gesture with concealed threats, and giving the impression that Russia and the Austrian Government have only to reach a bi-lateral agreement for the conclusion of a treaty to follow automatically. The main purpose of the latest Russian communication can be seen in one. Manifestly the Kremlin is endeavouring to drive a wedge between the Austrian authorities and the Western Allies. This, in fact, has already been discerned in Vienna, where a spokesman pointedly observes that "the Austrian Government has the feeling that this Soviet note implies a strong suggestion that Austria should take up a stand against the Western Powers." In short, the Austrian Government is not deluded by the Soviet magnanimity of offering henceforth to pay its own occupation costs, for the strings attached to this offer are much too obvious.

FOR six years now the fruitless discussions of the Austrian draft treaty by the Foreign Ministers' deputies have provided a drone or ground bass to the more high-pitched discords of international conflict. Yet time has done its work: the questions that agitated earlier meetings are now mostly solved, either by agreement or by attrition; Yugoslav claims to Austrian territory have long been dropped, and on the tangled matter of reparations from German assets in Austria the Soviet Union has in practice got what it wanted. The points at issue in the draft treaty are now few and of scant importance in themselves, and the stumbling blocks which the Russians still put in the way of an agreement are really no more than pretexts.

THE Austrian treaty could have been concluded a long time ago, and could be concluded now, if the Soviet Union wanted it. That it does not want it can be attributed to the fact that Russia would gain nothing from the emancipation and evacuation of Austria, and would, in her own view, lose much. Communists have made little headway in Austria, but while the Soviet Union keeps a zone of occupation it can prevent Austria from siding decisively with the West, and can maintain a valuable outpost and a military cover to Hungary and Czechoslovakia. It is such factors which so far have governed Russia's attitude to an Austrian treaty and nothing in the latest note to Vienna suggests that they are being written off by the Soviet Union. Russia insists that she desires a settlement of the problem, but quite clearly it is to be on the Kremlin's terms, which are designed to ensure that Russia does not forfeit her strategic influence in the Balkans.

BRITAIN AND KOREA

Position Clarified By Mr Butler

POLICY BASED ON UNITED NATIONS

London, July 30. Mr R. A. Butler, Acting Prime Minister, said in the House of Commons today that the British Government's policy was "firmly based on the United Nations, the United Nations Charter and its principles." Mr Clement Attlee, Opposition leader in the House, had asked whether Britain intended to use the machinery of the United Nations. Mr Butler said the answer to that question was "an equally emphatic 'yes.'"

"It is our objective to enter discussions to compare notes with our partners and allies and to conduct ourselves as a member of the United Nations itself and take full advantage not only of the opportunity for discussion but of the spirit of the Charter itself," Mr Butler went on.

He recalled that from the beginning of the aggression in Korea all nations involved had been under the auspices of the United Nations and acting on behalf of the United Nations. "We based our policy on that and I may say in passing that equally so has the United States Government," he said.

It was the American Government itself which introduced in the Security Council the resolution which constituted the authority for the United Nations action in Korea.

The United Nations had taken that action to give such assistance to the Republic of Korea as was necessary to repel an armed attack and restore international peace and security in the area.

Mr Butler said: "Not only do the objectives remain as stated but in our view it is essential that the same machinery should remain so that we not only carry through the struggle through the auspices of the United Nations but so the peace settlement should be made under United Nations auspices also."

Dealing with the statement by Mr John Foster Dulles, American Secretary of State, Mr Butler said the press reports were necessarily truncated.

"Even before Mr Attlee and the Opposition voiced their apprehensions on this score the Government had exactly the same reaction and had already decided to make our position clear to the United States Government," he said.

"Accordingly instructions were sent yesterday morning to the British Ambassador in Washington to make our position clear and I have already amplified those instructions by my statement."

Mr Butler then stated the British Government's position if the South Koreans broke the truce.

"Let me make this clear beyond all shadow of doubt that the British Government are in no way committed before the event to any action they may take," he said.

"We reserve ourselves to be completely free to take whatever action we may think right under the circumstances that may prevail at that time."

BETTER PICTURE

Mr Butler said there were certain clarifications of Mr Dulles' statement which had now been received from the United States Government, "which do give a rather better picture on at least one or more of the statements than we have had in from the short press reports."

For example, with regard to Mr Dulles' statement about what might happen at the end of 90 days, the report now received from the State Department "makes it clear that the question of what the United States Government would do would be a matter for discussion and agreement at that time in the light of the surrounding circumstances."

He emphasised that Britain was in no way committed to a walk out.

"Furthermore I want to make it absolutely clear that we would definitely be consulted before any such action was taken," he added.

The House cheered this remark.

Mr Butler said the Government would like to consider what would be their action if any steps were taken by President Syngman Rhee. Clearly a situation of the "utmost gravity" would arise, he said.

THE FIRST STEP

The British Government considered the first step should be consultation between the British Government and fellow members of the United Nations. Indeed, it was "inconceivable" that the United Nations itself should not meet in those circumstances.

In the alternative event of a renewal of aggression by the North Koreans that must be considered within the framework of the United Nations.

Mr Butler said in matters like this it was well to keep the situation as open as possible and to keep to the role "that we are working in conjunction with the United Nations."

The British Government, he added, thought events might develop in this way:

The first event would be the meeting of the General Assembly on August 17. The Minister of State, Mr Selwyn Lloyd, would represent Britain.

He hoped the General Assembly would pass a resolution setting up the political conference as the next step and prescribe the broad terms of reference.

The British Government considered there was a very strong case for urging that the following countries should be present: the United States, Britain, France, Soviet Russia, the North and South Koreans, the People's Republic of China, Australia, India, Turkey and perhaps others.

Mr Butler added: "This is perhaps the most comprehensive statement of our views so far."

As for the agenda it was clear the Korean problem must come first. There would have to be an interim period of pacification and rehabilitation in that country.

But the Government also hoped the talks would go "much further."

"We must hope that the success achieved will lead to consideration of other outstanding major problems in the Far East," he added.

Mr Butler said the question of Chinese representation in the United Nations could only be decided by the United Nations and not by political conference. All the conference would do was to make agreed recommendations.

FAMILY OF NATIONS

Amid loud cheers he went on: "Our conception of the United Nations is that of a family of nations and not an anti-Communist alliance."

Mr Butler said it was made clear at the Washington conference that the question of Communist China's admission should be further examined in the light of experience gained after the armistice.

He added: "That seems to me to coincide with the attitude adopted by Mr Attlee. You have to do one thing at a time. "That is why we have not taken up any rigid attitude on this question and this matter is open as it should be."

Mr Butler said the Government's views on the question of Chinese representation at the United Nations had been stated from time to time.

He then gave a resume of Mr Eden's statement on June 18 last year that he was in complete agreement with his predecessor, Mr Herbert Morrison, who said on June 27, 1951: "The British Government believe the Central People's Government should represent China in the United Nations. In view, however, of that government's persistence in behaviour which is inconsistent with the purposes and principles of the Charter it appears to the British Government that consideration of this question should be postponed."

Mr Butler went on: "I would like to endorse the spirit behind that statement as was done by Mr Eden."

"The addition I can make to it is that we hope the day for settling this and other problems will have been brought nearer by the armistice."

TRADE WITH CHINA

Turning to trade with China Mr Butler said: "My attitude and that of the Government towards trade with China has been frequently stated. Our policy is based on the embargo on the supply of strategic goods. Any change in this policy can only be made in collaboration with other governments which maintain similar strategic controls."

He added: "But again the fact that an armistice has been signed and that the United Nations is meeting, and that a political conference is coming, means that this attitude, like the other one, is open."

"If a situation arises when it can be envisaged that it should be altered we shall be ready to consider that matter."

"At the same time we shall carry out strictly while it is in being this policy which we have agreed on."

"Secondly it is our policy to develop trade in non-strategic materials."

"I can endorse it as being vital in the interest of the country from the economic point of view."

Mr Geoffrey Bing, Labour, asked if the Government would now again examine the strategic embargo lists.

JAPAN'S DECISION

Mr Bing added: "At the moment Japan has voted for complete freedom of trade. In these circumstances we should review our lists and see that they are not stricter than those of other countries of the United Nations."

Mr Butler said this question would be looked at from the point of view of need. He could not go further today, he said.

Mr Butler concluded: "We have to work as a loyal member of the United Nations."

"Whatever opportunities there may be can only be taken as they should be taken if we maintain absolute unity with our American friends and allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation, with the West German Republic, and all countries in the free world, and if we base ourselves on the spirit and concept of the United Nations Charter."

Four Prisoners Escape From Stanley

Four young prisoners in the under-25 age group, escaped early today from the Stanley Prison Annex. The annex is situated outside the prison walls and comprises a group of huts.

The prisoners rushed past guards when the hut in which they were housed was opened this morning. Up to the middle of the morning none of them had been recaptured.

O'Brien Leaves The Colony

Case Closed Says Mr McIntosh

M.P. O'Brien, the 48 year-old "Man without a country," left the Colony this morning.

A brief announcement to this effect was given by Mr D. W. McIntosh, Commissioner of Police, who added: "The O'Brien case is now closed."

It is understood that O'Brien, who, for the last 10 months has been a "perpetual passenger" on board the Hongkong-Macao motor vessel Lee Hong because he possessed no valid papers, left Hongkong by air early this morning for Brazil.

He is reported to have been put aboard a KLM plane.

Yesterday, O'Brien was taken off the Lee Hong by two police officers in plainclothes and his whereabouts for the rest of the day kept secret.

He is reported to have been seen off at Kai Tak this morning by members of the CID.

Quirino May Withdraw From Election

Manila, July 31.

President Quirino's possible withdrawal from the presidential race, due to his failing health, was indicated in top Liberal Party circles last night.

Mr Eugenio Perez, Liberal Party President and general campaign manager, and Senator Quintin Paredes, both indicated the possibility of Mr Quirino's withdrawal.

Senator Perez said that preliminary conferences regarding possible alternative campaign and election plans were initiated by Mr Quirino himself while he was still in Manila two months ago.

"The Liberal Party will remain intact regardless of the developments here or abroad," said Mr Perez. "As a matter of fact, I believe it will have reason to fight harder and campaign more intensely in the face of recent and prospective developments."

He declined to elaborate on what he meant by "prospective developments."

On the other hand, he urged the three major Parties—Liberal, Nacionalista and Democratic—to consider the formation of a single presidential and senatorial ticket in the event of Mr Quirino's withdrawal. He said the single ticket would accomplish the ideas formerly voiced by Nacionalista Senator Jose Laurel for a single candidate, satisfy the wishes of the Democratic Party for a change in leadership, and a change in the Liberal Party for unity—United Press.

PRESIDENT RALLIES

Baltimore, July 30. President Quirino of the Philippines rallied further this afternoon from his hampering of Tuesday, according to his physicians, as he was taken to a hospital, but he still faced a conclusive test as to whether he could absorb the nourishment needed for recovery.

Progress in that was reported today, however—United Press.

A Decoration For Gen. Franco

Labour Minister Jose Antonio Giron, pins the Gold Medal of the Merit of Work on to the chest of General Franco, at the El Prado, Madrid, Spain during one of the many ceremonies held to mark the 17th anniversary of the Spanish Civil War.

Sen. Taft's Condition "Critical"

New York, July 30. The condition of Senator Robert Taft (Republican, Ohio) was reported critical early tonight.

An announcement from New York Hospital at 10.15 p.m. GMT (HK time 7.15 a.m. Friday) said only "Senator Taft's condition is critical."

This followed, by two hours a bulletin that said the Senator had taken another turn for the worse and was breathing "with marked difficulty."

Senator Taft was recently operated for a hip complaint. The hospital issued a bulletin saying: "At 2.30 p.m. (7.30 p.m. GMT) Senator Taft suddenly took a turn for the worse. He is breathing with marked difficulty."

President Eisenhower's personal doctor, Major-General Howard Snyder, visited Senator Taft today at the request of the President.

General Snyder told reporters afterwards that the Senator was "an ill man" but would not comment on the nature of his illness—Reuter.

Dulles May Be Changing Viewpoint

Washington, July 30. Is Mr John Foster Dulles, the US Secretary of State, cracking in his determination to keep Communist China out of the United Nations?

He persists in a firm front, even in the face of international criticism, but there are hints that he may finally be talked into weakening and conceding Britain's point that Mao Tse-tung is the real ruler of China, and not Chiang Kai-shek.

Congress is still adamant that there should be no concession and the State Department puts on a bold show to support both Congress and Mr Dulles.

However, hanging over all discussions on the burning question is the air of inevitability that Britain and Red China will win in the end.

VERY SECRETIVE

Apart from occasional brave pronouncements by Mr Dulles the State Department is acting very secretively though reports keep slipping out that some changes are in the wind.

One newspaper report today claims the State Department is considering a plan that would let Red China serve a year's probation before the United Nations took definite action regarding admission.

In other words, the Chinese Communists would have a year to prove their good and peaceful intentions and would be expected to go along with United Nations plans for the unification of Korea through free elections.

Yet another plan reported to be under consideration is a compromise to let both Chinas into the United Nations—London Express Service.

SENATOR TAFT

Anglo-Egyptian Communiqué

Cairo, July 31. A joint Anglo-Egyptian communiqué last night said that "informal contacts concerning the problem of the Suez Canal Zone and base have been made between representatives of the Egyptian and United Kingdom Governments."

The communiqué added: "The possibilities of agreement will be further explored by this means before discussions are resumed."—Reuter.

FBI Swoop On Reds

Philadelphia, July 30. Six leading Pennsylvania Communists were arrested by Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) agents in a swoop before dawn today.

All were charged with conspiring to overthrow the United States Government by violence. The arrests brought to 87 the number of alleged American Communist leaders detained since 1948.

A few hours after the arrest, all six were led off to prison cells handcuffed in pairs.

One, Mr Joseph Kuzma, 41, whom the United States Commissioner, Mr Joseph Hildenberger, said he considered the "leader of the group," was held on a $50,000 bail. The others, held on $25,000 bail each, were:

David Dubinsky, also known as David Davis, 46; Sherman Labovitz, 29; Walter Lowenthal, 56; Thomas Nebel, 51; and Benjamin Weiss, 39; all from Philadelphia—Reuter.

Vysinsky Asks For Visa

Moscow, July 30. Mr Andrei Vysinsky, the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, and his daughter today applied for visas to attend the United Nations General Assembly session to open in New York on August 17—France-Press.

17 Men Aboard Missing US Bomber

Topeka, Kansas, July 30. The Forbes Air Force Base Public Information Office announced today that 17 officers and airmen were aboard the RB-50 reconnaissance bomber which disappeared on a flight in the Japan Sea near the Russian-held Asian mainland.

The plane, based on Honshu Island, Japan, was a craft of the 33rd Squadron of the 53th Reconnaissance Wing, Forbes Air Force Base, and was on routine temporary duty in the Far East.

The PIO at Forbes Air Base said the big four-engined plane was under the control of the Far Eastern Air Force but that "all 17 men aboard were Forbes personnel."

In Tokyo it was announced by the REAF that the co-pilot had been rescued by a Navy ship—United Press.

Djakarta Crisis Settled

New Cabinet For Indonesia

The Hague, July 30.

A new Indonesian Cabinet has been formed, headed by Dr. Ali Sastroamidjojo, Indonesian Ambassador to the United States, according to a cable received here from Aneta, the Indonesian news agency.

Indonesia has been without a government for 53 days. The Foreign Minister in the new Cabinet is Dr. Sunario, widely known in Southeast Asia for his active participation in United Nations non-governmental organization conferences.

President Soekarno has approved the new Cabinet. Five other political leaders have failed to form a government during the long crisis since the last coalition Cabinet resigned on June 2.

Indonesia had been left without a government because of differences of opinion between the two largest parties, the Islamic Masjumi and the Nationalists.

The crisis was the fourth since Indonesia gained independence from the Dutch in 1949.

The Cabinet, of Nationalist-Radical composition, will have 114 votes plus the backing of about 25 more from the Communist Party and other left groups in Parliament with a total of 221 votes.

The following is the Cabinet: Prime Minister—Ali Sastroamidjojo (PNI).

First Vice-Premier—Wongsonggoro (PNI).

Second Vice-Premier—Zeanui Arlan (Conservative).

Foreign Affairs—Sunario (PNI).

Home Affairs—Dr. Hazairin (PIR).

Economic Affairs—Iskani (PNI).

Internal Security—Zeanui Arlan (Conservative).

Finance—Dr. Ong Eng Die (PNI).

Defence—Iwa Kusumadewi (Progressive).

Justice—Djody Gondokusumo (National People's Party).

Information—F. L. Tobin (National People's Party).

Public Works—Professor Roossing (PIR).

Education—Mohammed Yamin (Progressive).

Agriculture—Sudjarto (Indonesian Peasants).

Religious Affairs—Masjkur (Moslem NU).

Social Affairs—R. P. Suroso (Great Indonesian Nationalist Party).

Agricultural Affairs—Mohammed Hanafiah (Moslem NU).

State Welfare—Sudibjo (Indonesian Muslim).

President Soekarno announced that he would swear in the Cabinet as soon as possible.

NATSI'S OPINION

Djakarta, July 30.

Mohammed Natsir, chairman of the Moslem Majlis Party, tonight said Indonesia's new Cabinet, without his Party's participation, in his opinion could only stand with the support of the PKI Communist Party.

Natsir, who was Prime Minister in the country's second government in 1949, added that the Majlis would go into the opposition but only in accordance with methods used in a parliamentary democracy.

He referred to the previous time when the Majlis—Indonesia's largest political Party—was not represented in the Cabinet of Sjahrudin. He said the life of that Cabinet was extremely short and implied that perhaps the present Cabinet would likewise not last very long. Sjahrudin later declared he was a Communist and was executed for taking part in an abortive Red uprising.—United Press.

Soviet Note Said Effort To Divide Austria & West

London, July 30.

Official British sources threw cold water today on Russia's latest "peace" offer for conditional resumption of treaty talks on Austria and considered it a deliberate move to drive a wedge between Austria and the Western Powers.

A Foreign Office spokesman described the Russian offer, coined in a note to the Austrian Government today, as a "repetition of old demands."

Britain, the United States and France will consult immediately on the Kremlin's latest move after their recent talks in Moscow for four-Power talks on German elections and an Austrian treaty.

The spokesman also made it clear that "while full importance is attached to the views of the Austrian Government, the conclusion of the treaty is a matter for the Four Powers."

Some officials believed that the Russian offer, coupled with an announcement that Moscow is willing to pay its occupation costs in Austria, is a diversionary move to mobilise Austrian public opinion against the Western Powers and a stall to gain time.

Russia, in her note to Austria, broadcast by Moscow Radio this morning, made the resumption of four-Power talks on an Austrian treaty conditional on the withdrawal of the abbreviated West-proposed treaty.

The note gave no assurance that Moscow will sign the treaty if it is negotiated on a different basis nor did it advance suggestions on how or when a settlement could be reached.

NOT A REPLY

The Foreign Office's spokesman, in a preliminary appraisal of the offer, made the following points today:

1.—The West does not consider the note to Austria a reply to its notes of June 11 in which the Soviet was formally invited to resume the talks on an Austrian State treaty to ensure political and economic independence for Austria.

2.—The offer today is a "repetition" of old demands for the withdrawal of the abbreviated treaty.

The views of the Western Powers, he said, "were made at the last session of the Foreign Ministers' deputies and in the notes to Moscow of June 11 which stated that the West is prepared to accept any treaty which would ensure Austria's political and economic independence."

3.—In June the Soviet Government was invited to inform the West of the exact text of the treaty which she is prepared to conclude. No answer has been received to this approach.

4.—The deputies have been kept fully informed by the Austrian Government on its views about the treaty but "while full importance is attached to these views, it is not for the Austrian Government to conclude the Austrian State Treaty," the spokesman added.—United Press.

Not Official

London, July 31.

The Foreign Office said last night that no official information had been received that the Egyptian Prime Minister, General Mohammed Naguib, was prepared to meet Sir Winston Churchill to discuss the Suez Canal Zone problem.

General Naguib said in Cairo on Wednesday night that he would be ready to meet the British Prime Minister, "in London if necessary."

A Foreign Office spokesman commented that if this was the considered view then "no doubt he will let us know."—Reuter.

U.S. Major-General Transferred

Washington, July 30.

His successor will be announced by Headquarters, Far East Command.—United Press.

WARNING BY EAST GERMANY

Berlin, July 30.

Taegliche Rundschau, Soviet newspaper in East Germany, today published the names and addresses of 25 Soviet Zone citizens who collected free food parcels on offer in West Berlin.

The newspaper did not say whether action was taken or contemplated against them. But Herr Hermann Matern, a Communist Politburo member, said nobody would in future be able to claim that he did not know that in taking Western food, he was being recruited for espionage and sabotage.

The article asserted that the names of the 25 people it listed had been passed to an anti-Communist organization in West Berlin, the Free Jurists, as likely recruits for sabotage and espionage.

West Berlin authorities handling the relief scheme said they considered Herr Matern's speech an attempt to stem the flood of East Germans and East Berliners coming to the West for free parcels. Since the scheme was launched on Monday, more than 600,000 people have come to collect the gift food.

On Monday about 150,000 came for their 10-lb. parcel of condensed milk, flour and vegetables. On Tuesday it was 200,000, on Wednesday 250,000, and today's figure was expected to be even bigger.

The rush far exceeded expectations and new supplies were being hurried in from West Germany to replenish sagging stocks.

A city official said packing the food was the bottleneck. Some firms were working round the clock to keep pace with the need.

The East German Communist Party paper, Neues Deutschland, today reported a speech in which the Deputy Prime Minister, Herr Walter Ulbricht, promised that the party aimed to improve the workers' lot so far it would arouse the envy of West Germans.—Reuter.

Mount Austen Expedition

Skardu, Pakistan, July 30.

The nine-man American expedition to 28,250-foot Mount Austen—the world's highest unconquered peak—has set up its third camp several days ahead of schedule, it was reported yesterday.

A message carried here by runner and dated July 10 said the camp was pitched 21,700 feet up the mountain. A reconnaissance party had selected the site of the next camp 800 feet higher, it said.

The message said the weather was becoming warmer, though temperatures were still below freezing.—Reuter.

WHEAT FOR PAKISTAN

Lahore, July 30.

The first trainload of American wheat given to combat famine in Pakistan arrived today from Karachi, the Pakistani airport capital.

American consular officials and Moslem League leaders were present for the unloading of the wheat.

The Punjab Revenue Minister, Pullat Ali Quilbash, thanked America for her gesture and assured the people that "the wheat will be utilised for the purpose for which it is given, and every penny received through its sale shall be spent on growing more food."—France-Press.

Reiteration Of Desire For Peace

London, July 30.

Russia's Communist Party—50 years old today—considers its main task in foreign policy is to prevent a new world war. The Party paper, Pravda, said today, Moscow Radio reported.

A former editor of Pravda, P. N. Fupelov, who is now Secretary of the Central Committee of the Party, reviewed its history in an article which took 40 minutes to read over the radio.

He referred to the Korean War as "the imperialists' military adventure" and said the Soviet Union consistently pursues a peace-loving policy.

Fupelov quoted Lenin's dictum that socialism and capitalism can live in "co-existence and peaceful competition."—Reuter.

CLARK WARNS THE REDS

Inadvisable To Resume Korea War

Communists Would "Risk Their Own Destruction"

San Francisco, July 30.

General Mark W. Clark warned the Communists today that if they resume the Korean war that will "risk their own destruction."

In his first major speech since the armistice, the United Nations Far East Commander said the forthcoming Korean political conference will "put the Reds on the spot" to prove their sincerity.

Gen. Clark returned to the United States from his Tokyo headquarters to receive a warm welcome.

IMPROVED ATOMIC WEAPONS

Success Of U.S. Experiments

Washington, July 30.

The Atomic Energy Commission today disclosed that it was blueprinting a new atom engine which would drive submarines "significantly" faster than the two sub engines already developed.

At the same time, the AEC reported:

1. Production of atomic explosives hit an all-time record high in the first six months of this year and soon will go even higher.

2. The 11 experimental devices exploded in Nevada this year—in the "longest and most complex series yet conducted"—"substantially" greater atomic weapons capability for the United States.

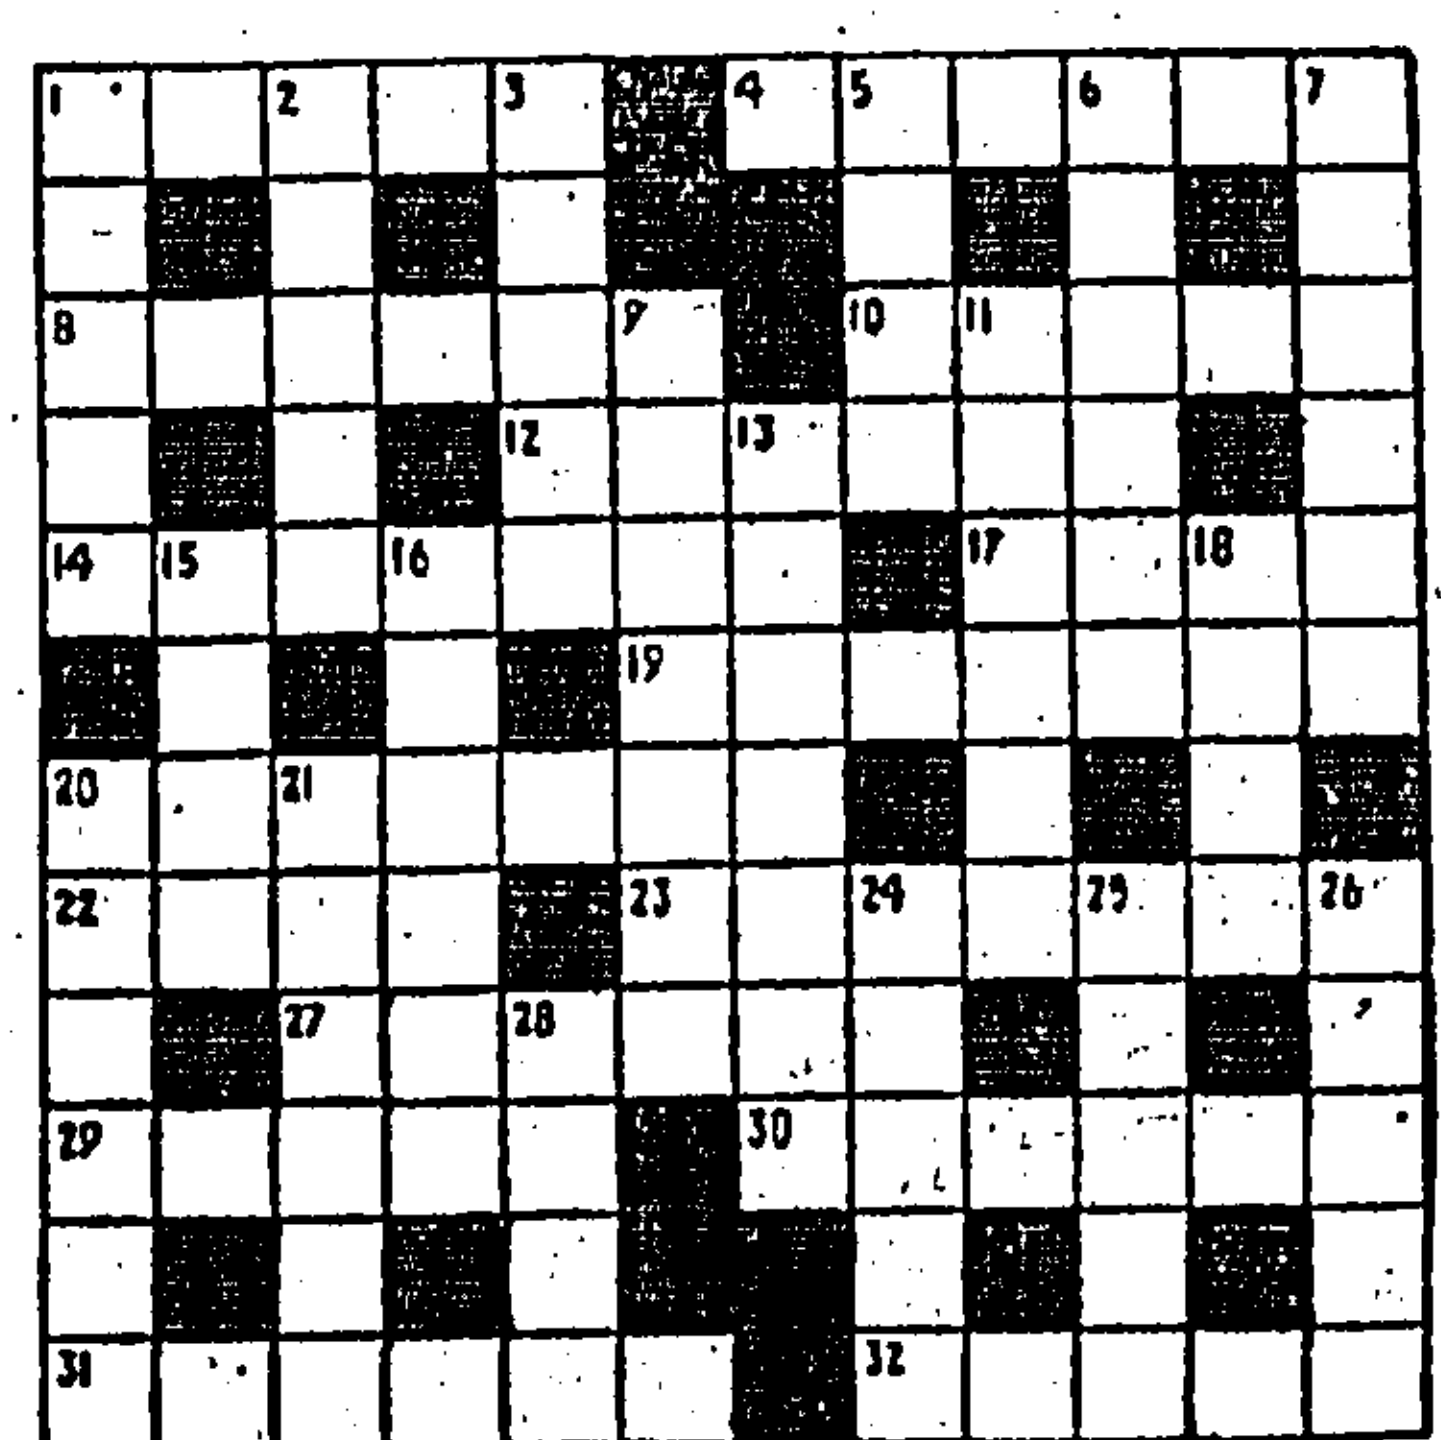

3. The first of two land-based submarine engine prototypes produced "substantial amounts of power" already and will produce more when it is brought to full operation.

4. New raw material sources and new techniques of exploiting them give promise that atomic forces will be a "major source of energy for many years."

These disclosures were the highlights of the AEC's 14th semi-annual report covering the first six months of 1953. It said the period may be best remembered for developments in reactor and power phases of the atomic project.—United Press.

Reuter quotes the Commission as saying that the success of the Nevada tests had "obliterated the necessity of a full-scale test series originally planned (in Nevada) for the autumn of 1953."

Soviet Policy On Germany Devoid Of Hopeful Signs

Manchester, July 30.

The Manchester Guardian today expressed the view that Russia's policy for East Germany at present was devoid of anything that could encourage hopes of German reunification.

"The latest speech of the East German Prime Minister and the shake-up that has been going on in party and Government in the Soviet zone are a clear enough indication of present Russian policy for Eastern Germany," the Liberal newspaper said.

"It is the adoption of something like Mao Tse-tung's semi-new Democracy or what Lenin named his new economic policy."

"Economic stringencies are to be eased and the people given the chance of a rather easier life and a higher standard of living made possible."

"But there is to be ruthless suppression of all political opposition and the vigilant action of the supremacy of the ruling party."

"The 'liberal' policy will continue but no one will be allowed to argue about it. 'All this hardly fits in with the progress towards German unity of which Grotewohl spoke."

JUST PLAN A

"Continued exclusion of the idea of political freedom means continued impossibility of agreement with the Western powers and the Federal Republic over reunification."

"At the same time introduction of the easier life in Eastern Germany could make Russia's problem of policing the zone less difficult in the event of continued partition."

"This does not exclude the possibility that the plan now going into operation is merely 'Plan A' with other plans held in reserve, to be produced either shortly before the West German elections in an attempt to weigh the scales against Dr. Adenauer or to be tabled at a four-power conference."

"Other plans may exist and they may contain concessions on the issue of free elections in exchange for guarantees of Russian security."

"But all that can be said at present is that 'Plan A' holds the field and that it is depressingly devoid of anything that could encourage hopes of German reunification," the Manchester Guardian added.—Reuter.

Thailand's Service Chiefs For Taipei?

Taipei, July 30.

Admiral Liang Yulian, Kwoi commander of the Thai Navy, and Air Chief Marshal Fuen Ronabhabas, Rithakani, commander of the Thai Air Force, are expected to visit Taiwan shortly, according to press reports.

The Thai naval chief was said to be coming in mid-August, and Air Chief Marshal Fuen in mid-September.—Reuter.

Political Conference Should Be Confined To The Korean Issue

NEHRU ON CONDITIONS FOR SUCCESS

New Delhi, July 30.

The Indian Prime Minister, Mr. Jawaharlal Nehru, said today that the forthcoming political conference on Korea should be informal and confined to Korea.

Mr. Nehru also said that the United Nations would be "incomplete" until Red China was admitted to membership.

Mr. Nehru said three conditions were necessary for the success of the conference on Korea:

- 1.—It should not be "too big."
- 2.—It should be "more of a round-table conference than a cross-table conference."
- 3.—It should be "rather informal, not conducted in a rigid way."

Mr. Nehru did not favour mixing recognition of Red China with the political conference on Korea but the question needed to be faced.

"We think the United Nations incomplete without China being there," he said.

"If China is not there, from the viewpoint of the population of the world, nearly a quarter of the world is just not there. It is not a question of anybody being it or not. I am certain that until this question is cleared up the United Nations will never function properly, effectively and efficiently, nor will the problems of the Far East be solved."

NO CONNECTION

Reporters asked Mr. Nehru if he favoured including Indo-China in the agenda of the Korean conference, he said: "I don't myself see the connection," he said. "Why not Morocco and Tunisia, too, and have done with it. Maybe it is a few thousand miles away but it is the same kind of national problem."

Mr. Nehru said that India would not insist on representation at the conference.

"We don't insist on getting anywhere unless we are wanted," he declared.

MOSCOW POLICY

Mr. Nehru did not know what effect Stalin's death had on Soviet policy but the Soviet Union's policy now was "definitely" one of peace.

"There is no doubt about it," he said. "The policy pursued by the Soviet Union in the last few months has been definitely a policy in search of peace and relieving tension. People sometimes ask questions about the Soviet policy. I cannot and nobody can answer such psychological questions but there is no doubt you can judge a country's policy better by what happens internally rather than what happens externally."

"Whoever may have been responsible the fact is clear that the Government of the Soviet Union has been trying to lessen tension in Europe and elsewhere. I think that that can also be said of the Chinese Government."—United Press.

JAPAN'S POSITION

Washington, July 30.

Efforts by Japan for representation at the forthcoming political conference on Korea would be discouraged, United States diplomatic officials said today.

"But because of Japan's vital interest in Korea's strategic, political and economic future, her views were certain to be considered by the United Nations member countries taking part in the conference with the Communists, they said."

United States officials, commenting on despatches from Tokyo which stated Japan's desire for representation at least to have nations taking part in the political conference thoroughly conversant with her views, said South Korean opposition would be "a major obstacle to Japanese participation."

But diplomatic officials, who expect the conference to be limited to nations which took a direct role in the Korean fighting, would not flatly rule out the possibility of Japan's representation in some form in view of the nation's relationship to Korea.

With the exception of Mr. John Foster Dulles, the United States Secretary of State, officials here have made no statements regarding the nations to meet the Communist negotiators at the conference, which is to begin within 90 days of the Korean truce.

MIND NOT CLOSED

Mr. Dulles has said only that he regarded the United States and the Republic of Korea as indispensable nations to take part from the United Nations conference, this will be a matter for discussion between the Chinese Communists and the North Korean Government would represent the Communists.

But Mr. Dulles added at a press conference on Tuesday that he did not have a closed mind regarding the possibility of participation by the Soviet Union. It was felt among official quarters here that should Soviet representation be agreed upon, the situation regarding Japan would be altered.

So far few exchanges of views have taken place regarding the Allied delegation to the conference, and according to Mr. Dulles, this will be a matter for discussion between the Chinese Communists and the North Korean Government, Dr. Syngman Rhee, in Seoul next week.

President Rhee, it is believed here, would raise strong objection to any Japanese representation at the conference.

South Korea's attitude was put forward yesterday by the South Korean Ambassador to the United States, Dr. You Chan Yang, who said he was absolutely opposed to giving Japan a voice at the conference. Japanese authorities in Washington confirmed that their Government wanted representation at the Korean conference, but it was learned that so far no formal approaches had been made to the State Department.—Reuter.

MARSHAL KIM SENDS THANKS TO RUSSIA

London, July 30.

Marshal Kim Il Sung, North Korean Prime Minister and Commander-in-Chief, has sent a message to M. Georgi Malenkov, the Russian Prime Minister, thanking him for the Soviet Union's "assistance and support" in the Korean War, Moscow Radio said today.

Moscow Radio quoted Marshal Kim Il Sung as saying in the course of his message:

"Permit me on behalf of the Government and all the people of the Korean People's Democratic Republic to express cordial relations to you and in your person to the Soviet Government and the whole Soviet people for your warm congratulations on the occasion of the historic victory of the Korean people and the Chinese People's volunteers in the sanguinary war provoked by the American imperialists against the Korean people."

"I am deeply convinced that the enormous and selfless assistance and support of the Korean people by the Soviet people is one of the major factors of our victory in the three years of hard war in defence of freedom and the independence of our country against the American aggressors and a reliable guarantee for the Korean people of the important tasks set to it in connection with the armistice—the attainment of a peaceful unification of the country and the speedier restoration of the national economy destroyed by the war," Marshal Kim Il Sung wrote.—Reuter.

Attlee Under Fire In West Germany

Bonn, July 30.

The West German Social Democratic leader, Herr Erich Ollenhauer, today criticised a statement made in the House of Commons by Mr. Clement Attlee, leader of the Labour Party, in which he called for recognition of the 'Oder-Neisse line' (the present East German-Polish frontier).

Herr Ollenhauer told a meeting of his Party Executive that Social Democrats would not allow themselves to be influenced by Mr. Attlee.

He said the Social Democratic Party maintained its view that the Oder-Neisse line was not a final settlement.

The German people he added, belonged to the West, for it alone afforded a guarantee of democracy in freedom.—Reuter.

Malaya Needs Urgent Financial Aid

London, July 30.

The battle against Communism in Malaya came under urgent official notice here today as the 'Korea' truce increased the already disastrous slump in tin and rubber prices, and turned the war into a race between military victory or dangerous economic loss.

Sir Donald MacGillivray, Malaya's Deputy High Commissioner, came to Britain last week to put before the Government Malaya's pressing case for financial help.

The right-hand man to Gen. Gerald Templer, High Commissioner and Supreme Military Commander in Malaya, is holding three weeks of talks with Colonial Office and Treasury officials.

Sir Donald was said to have described how the five-year-old shooting war against the Reds is giving place to an economic struggle in which tin and rubber prices in Malaya must be regarded as a malaplay against Communism.

Quarters dealing with Malayan affairs said that the situation there now has developed into a race between winning the anti-Red war and the drop in value of Malaya's natural resources now that the speculative boom caused by the Korea war has collapsed.

Rubber prices, they said, had dropped from 170 Straits cents per pound in 1951 to 65 cents per pound today. Tin had dropped from $827 per picul in 1951 to $296 per picul.

These disastrous falls had come when the Malay Federation was at the height of a battle against Communism on three fronts.

1.—Malaya was carrying on the shooting war which has been going on for five years at a cost of approximately $450,000 for each Communist eliminated.

2.—Malaya was trying to build up and reinforce its social structure to withstand Communist penetration.

3.—Malaya is still trying to repair the ravages of the second World War.

The end of the shooting in Korea focused attention again on the bitter almost forgotten anti-Communist war.

Up to the end of 1952, the quarters said, Malaya alone had spent over $750,000,000 on fighting the Reds. In addition, Britain had contributed $85,000,000 in addition to the normal pay of the 40,000-strong Army sent to Malaya for the emergency.

This expensive shooting war up to the end of 1952 had yielded a total of 5,697 Reds eliminated either through death, surrender or capture and a total Red casualty list of 7,651.

By an extraordinary coincidence the total of British and Malayan casualties was given officially as "exactly the same figure—7,651—comprising 3,939 security force casualties, 4,065 casualties among civilians."

At present the anti-Red war was being run at a cost of about $220,000,000 annually, the quarters said.

Besides these heavy and direct war expenditures, the quarters added, Malaya had spent about $100,000,000 on railway construction, $80,000,000 on light and power projects and $325,000,000 on other construction schemes.

In addition there had been local loans for road construction and the building and extension of airports, all budgeted on a price of 70 cents for rubber and $480 per picul for tin.

At these price levels the budget would have shown a $497,000,000 deficit so that the further drastic slump in these levels since the Korea truce called for a new look at Malaya's finances if the defence against Communism was to be maintained.—United Press.

ATTLEE PUTS SKIDS UNDER ATTLEE

By Lord Winster

★ As Lieut-commander Fletcher, Lord Winster sat in the Commons as Socialist MP for Nuneaton from 1935 until his elevation to the peerage in 1942. He was Minister of Civil Aviation in Mr Attlee's first postwar administration.

THE leadership, or the alleged lack of leadership, of the Socialist Party comes increasingly under fire.

The New Statesman of July 11 said that amid the great events precipitated by Stalin's death, "the Socialist Party has attracted attention only by its inertia," and that the "indifference" to the leadership manifested by Socialist voters at the three recent by-elections, "is privately harboured by very many of the most devoted party members."

We are passing through a moment of decision at which the party leaders "stand aside, dumb and unresponsive, unable apparently to call upon their reserves of either courage or principle." This is plain, if not, indeed, harsh speaking.

To judge whether the New Statesman is right or wrong one must examine the evidence for its statement that there is criticism among "devoted party members."

I would regard Mr Arthur Denkin as a staunch and stalwart Socialist man, not anxious for a knighthood or for anything else which would fetter his freedom to give the freest expression about the party, its leaders and whatever else concerns the party. Speaking at Southsea on the 15th he said that when he attacked the "disruptionists" at Morecambe in 1952 he almost said to Mr Attlee, who was on the platform, "It should not be my job to raise this question. It is the responsibility of the leader of the party." There was certainly surprise and disappointment amounting to dismay at Mr Attlee's silence on that occasion.

Then there is Lord Pakenham. I would certainly describe him as a "very devoted" party member.

Topic Always

HE wrote in October last year that the leaders "had not solved the country's problems when (they) left office" since when they "thinking has been done behind locked doors" and they had been unable to "answer a few very definite questions" members had wished to put to them.

Quite evidently criticism of the leadership is not confined to the "disruptionists" or, in plain terms, the Bevanites. It is, in fact, a constant, harassing, depressing and frustrating topic of conversation among Socialist members of Parliament. What it all centres on is Bevan's bid for the leadership.

I do not venture to offer any opinion on who should lead the party other than to say that the field of selection does not appear to be large. Here the Conservatives are at an advantage with at least four alternative leaders should Sir Winston Churchill decide, or be compelled to give up. But while there may be justifiable criticism of Bevan's methods I think that some of the attacks upon him have been unfair.

In bidding for the leadership he is doing what is in strict accord with the rules of the political game—what has been done over and over again. Joseph Chamberlain having split the Liberal Party went on to join and split the Unionist Party. He tried to impose a Tariff Reform upon a reluctant Arthur Balfour, failed and fell, but also dragged Balfour down.

Randolph Churchill aspired to lead his party, gambled on a hedgehog and great was the fall thereof. Asquith, with Grey-Haldane, tried to hoist Campbell-Bannerman into the Lords and Asquith did replace him.

Lloyd George engineered the fall of Asquith, and in due course was himself unseated by Baldwin. Winston Churchill got the skids under Neville Chamberlain. The pattern will constantly repeat itself, for what goes up must come down.

Whenever the old hand has to yield to a palace revolution his friends make shrill noises about disloyalty, plotting, fomenting a split, etc., but if this is common form it is also largely irrelevant.

A Prime Minister must remember what Frazier says in the Golden Bough about the priest of the sacred grove of Diana at Aricia. "A candidate for the priesthood could only succeed to the office by slaying the priest, and having slain him he retained office till he was himself slain by a stronger or a craftier."

Poles Apart

THE contest between Mr Attlee and Mr Bevan is interesting if only because it is waged between two men of completely opposite characteristics.

Attlee is a reformist Fabian, Bevan a Marxist. Attlee's blood runs chilly, Bevan's never far off the boil. Attlee has little to say to Bevan what Charles II said to his brother, "they will never slay me to make you king."

Nevertheless, the party cannot get into fighting trim for a General Election until its internal differences have been healed, and only effective leadership can do this.

THE CHAPMAN PINCHER COLUMN

NEGRESSES TURNED WHITE

DOCTORS have accidentally discovered a harmless way of turning Negroes white; it was disclosed at the British Medical Association meeting in Cardiff.

Two young Negroes, who were almost black but are now completely white except for their hair and eyes, after American doctors bleached their skins with an ointment. One of them has since given birth to a black baby.

The women were originally given the ointment to treat a slight skin abnormality on one arm. The ointment contains a chemical called benzyl ether of hydroquinone.

TASTY TOUCH

★ CHEMICALS which were used by shipwrecked sailors to make seawater drinkable are now being tried in the treatment of stomach and duodenal ulcers. Just as they take the salt out of brine, they can take acid out of the digestive juices.

The chemicals, which are resins, are also being tested in the treatment of high blood pressure and heart disorders. They absorb sodium—the substance in salt which is harmful to heart patients.

So doctors hope that by taking a dose of resin before a meal heart sufferers will be able to enjoy the same food as the rest of the family.

MAKE THIS TEST

★ HOW FAST are your reactions?—your co-ordination between hand and eye? Here is a simple way to find out:—Put a pencil mark on a wall and get a friend to hold a ruler vertically against it with the zero mark at the pencil line. He should keep the ruler against the wall by pressing it near the bottom with his thumb.

Hold your thumb about half an inch from the middle of the ruler and watch the ruler carefully. When your friend lowers his hand—without warning you—try to stop the ruler by pressing with your thumb as soon as you see it beginning to move.

Measure how far it dropped from the pencil mark and read off your reaction time from this scale:—

Half an inch 0.5sec.
Two inches 1.5sec.
Four and a half inches 2.5sec.
Eight inches 3.5sec.
Twelve inches 4.5sec.
Twenty-four inches 5.5sec.
Anything faster than 1.0 second is good.

SNOOP MAKES A CITY DUMB

By Rene MacColl

WHAT is it that has turned sour the atmosphere of America's capital, Washington?

Why is it that I find fear and suspicion so prevalent in the huge Federal offices and especially in the rambling State Department (America's Foreign Office)?

Why is it that the once frank, breezy, carefree officials are today glum, fearful, and tight-lipped?

The answer is easy. Senator Joe McCarthy, of Wisconsin, and his whole strange, half-hysterical campaign of witch-hunting, informing, and "investigating" is to blame.

It is all very sad and worrying. Somehow McCarthyism's original (and perfectly legitimate) concern over the menace of aggressive Russian Communism has got so mixed up in people's minds, so hopelessly confused with half-baked notions about treachery, espionage and so forth, that few people are able to think straight about the matter any more.

I called on an important State Department official the other day.

On the wall above his head there hung this notice:—

FEDERAL CREED OF SERVICE

We, as members of the Civil Service, accept our obligation and our opportunity to serve the American people well and in full measure, doing our best to further the free and democratic institutions of our country. We believe it is our duty to carry out loyally the will of the people as expressed in our laws, serve the public with fairness, courtesy, integrity and understanding; help improve the efficiency, economy, and effectiveness of our work, and thus do our part in performing the great services of the Government.

IMAGINE!

RATHER an odd sort of thing to find hanging in the office of an adult, one might think. Can you imagine it in Whitehall?

It is laughable—a bit reminiscent of a small-town chemist's diploma hung up to bolster self-assurance.

But why was it there? Simply because McCarthy has so terrified people in the State Department that they are driven to the strongest things in an endeavour to show that they are all right.

Over the official's electric light knob was this reminder (bright green wording inside a purple ring):—"HAVE YOU CHECKED?"

"Checked what?"

I asked him. He lowered his voice automatically. "We have to check for security last thing before we go home at night," he explained.

"How do you do that?"

"Well, we have to put our 'in' and 'out' trays up on edge."

"But what good does that do?" I asked, mystified.

"Ah, you see, we have to check for security last thing before we go home at night," he explained.

"They come into the office when we are not there and slip coded telegrams—fake ones, of course—underneath our trays. If the telegrams are still there next morning it proves we forgot to put the trays on edge."

"That's all?"

"That's all," he said.

"Now, how far is McCarthy going to go? Is his amazing career of power and fear and hatred to blaze on unchecked?"

Will he even—many persons predict—try for the presidency?

Many worthy Americans say that I heard men say of Hitler years ago—"I don't approve of some of his methods, but, mind you, there's no getting away from it that..."

Yet McCarthy has come smack up against two full stops.

IN THE CHURCH

DEFEAT NO. 1 was when one of his team declared that the ranks of Protestant clergy in America form one of the biggest breeding grounds for Communism.

The row flared instantly. Americans by and large are highly religious people, or at least respectful of their Church.

And then President Eisenhower stepped in. Result: Curtains for that team-member.

DEFEAT NO. 2 was when McCarthy tried to question certain Intelligence men.

Eisenhower quietly announced that Intelligence men should not go in the box.

So it looks as if like at long last is getting tough with Terrible Joe. A fight to the finish between these two is going to be fascinating to watch—and the way it turns out will be mighty important.

'STOOGES'

THE State Department today has McCarthy's "stooges" in it—men who regularly report to the Senator on what people are doing and saying inside the department.

Sooner or later these men become known to the rest of the staff, and it is a common occurrence nowadays to encounter a sudden stoppage of normal chatter and laughter in the State Department canteen or in the corridors as a known stooge comes into sight.

McCarthy proudly refers to these snoopers as the "loyal American underground."

FRIGHTENING

McCarthy's sheer irresponsibility is among the things about him which so frightens people. Reporters ar-

The Fabulous Major Starts Again With Ten Men

By ALAN HOBY

Here he is again! The old showman of Soccer himself, the man with the Midas touch, is starting the toughest job of his career with rock bottom Third Division Walsall.

You remember the Major? You should. The late Herbert Chapman apart, there never has been anyone in football quite like the fabulous Franklin Charles Buckley. "Frank" to you and me!

"There's gold in them thar hills" has always been the Buckley approach to the rich League club, and a list of youngsters he has picked up for nothing and then sold for fat cheques would fill this column.

His managerial feats can be summed up in one word—'fantastic'.

Before the war he not only piloted Wolverhampton Wanderers from the Second Division to the top places of the First Division but—

He sold £113,000 worth of footballers—a record never equaled.

He wiped out a bank overdraft as well as the mortgage on the ground.

He led Wolves to the Cup Final, and with his 'pocket money' invested in the stock market he made them the most talked-about team in the country.

He made more Soccer stars than any other man alive.

Stan Cullis, now Wolves manager, who became England's greatest-ever centre-half, Bryn Jones, Wolves wizard, who went to Arsenal for what was then a world record transfer of £14,000, Jimmy Mullen, England winger who first played for Wolves at 10, and best-known of all, Billy Wright, the current England captain, who has more caps (51) than any other Englishman—these stars and many more were found and groomed by the major.

NO LIVING IN THE PAST

"But," as he says, "you can't live in the past. There are fresh worlds to conquer."

That's what I like about the amazing Frank Buckley—his courage, his faith, and his brainpower—over belief in himself.

At the age of 70—age when most men have retired—the vigorous, blue-eyed, plus-foured Major has taken on poor struggling Walsall, who in the past two seasons have had to apply twice to the Football League for re-election.

It's a hard, heart-breaking job," he told me. "We've got nothing here—no money, one of the poorest grounds in the country, and just TEN signed-on professionals."

"Why are you doing it, then?" I asked. "It's a challenge," Buckley replied. "I love football and I've determined to try to do for Walsall what I did for Wolves."

"Walsall have a fine tradition, and like the other little clubs, it's just as important to this town as Arsenal or Aston Villa."

"I think they once beat Arsenal in a Cup tie?"

"The Major's methods will be those that made him famous. He will dredge the district for youth—locally and in the schools."

FLASHBACK

Flashback: At Wolverhampton, only a bus ride from Walsall, Buckley picked up promising players from school, built up their physique with gymnastics, deep breathing, and massage.

He also hired a psychologist to instill the 'will-to-win' in a trained child psychologist who, once a week inspected the players' feet.

NEIL HARVEY SCORES HIS NINTH CENTURY OF THE TOUR—AGAINST SURREY

London, July 30. A century by the young lefthander, Neil Harvey, his ninth of the tour, was the highlight of the Australians' first innings against Surrey here today.

The tourists passed Surrey's total of 209 for eight declared with only two wickets down, but lost another seven men in taking their score to 327 by the close. They led by 118 with one wicket in hand.

Harvey played a brilliant innings for 113 out of 163 in two hours and five minutes. Driving, hooking and hitting powerfully, he took one six and 11 fours off the attack. With Lindsay Hassett, who scored 67 in an hour and 55 minutes, he put on 117 in 70 minutes for the third wicket.

Earlier, the opening batsman, Arthur Morris, who has not yet scored a century on the tour, had topped 50 for the eighth time in scoring an entertaining 67 with two sixes and seven fours.

Bill Johnston took Surrey's last three wickets this morning for three runs in 17 balls, bringing his figures to four for 61. When Surrey lost their fourth wicket the pitch was behaving nastily after the rain overnight and in the early morning, but the second rolling of the wicket turned it for the Australians.

The match ends tomorrow.

COUNTY CRICKET

London, July 30.

Trevelyan, Essex and England all-rounder, followed his 60 not out yesterday by taking ten wickets for 77 runs today to help his County score an innings win over Somerset.

Brookfield, the Somerset captain, drove in a refreshing style in their first innings, hitting 62, with two sixes and seven fours. But the other batsmen put up little resistance, and Somerset were all out for 175.

In their second innings they scored 147 and Essex gained their second victory of the season with little difficulty.

Alex Thompson and Sidney Brown brought their overnight fourth wicket partnership of 139 for Middlesex against Hampshire to 216. In spite of this big stand, Derek Shackleton came out with the excellent figures of six for 49 for Hampshire.

Len Hutton, out for six against Kent yesterday, scored an immaculate 100 not out today for Yorkshire. He and Lester, who made 88, put on 103 in 10 minutes for their third wicket. Yorkshire had lost their first two wickets for 49. Hutton batted 2½ hours and hit nine fours.

Sussex, in the face of a big score by Northamptonshire, were only 30 runs behind with four wickets in hand at the close today. The left-hander, Ken Suttle, with 104 not out, and Langridge, 75, gave them the chance of first innings points.

Suttle reached his fourth century of the season in four hours hitting one six and seven fours. He used his feet cleverly and was ready to take any quick single. Langridge batted 2½ hours and shared partnership of 83 with David Sheppard and 74 with Suttle.

F.G. Luz And Ogley Continue With Their Giant-felling By "TOUCHER"

Except for three postponed matches, the Colony Open Pairs Lawn Bowls Championship reached the last 16 stage yesterday with five further matches played off.

The 1949 Champions, the brothers K. M. Rumjahn and S. M. Rumjahn, failed to upset the giant-killing mood of F. G. Luz and W. C. Ogley, who maintained the brilliant form of their earlier round when they eliminated Hong Sling and A. M. Omar, to win yesterday by 24-16.

Except for a strong challenge on the seventh head when the score stood at 8-5, the winners led all the way to win comfortably.

At the HKFC, P. K. Lau and R. Tay upheld the prestige of the Third Division bowlers when they narrowly edged out their First Division clubmates, G. Hong Choy and G. A. Souza, by 17-15.

Opening with a single and a three, they maintained their lead at 10-2 on the 8th head, 13-0 on the 12th head, and 15-0 on the 16th head.

The two Georges came back strongly towards the closing stages of the game and at 12-17.

TURPIN WILL NOT FIGHT IN 'FRISCO

London, July 30.

George Middleton, manager of Randolph Turpin, has made up his mind that Turpin will not fight Carl "Bobo" Olson, the American Champion, for the world middleweight title in San Francisco.

Middleton said today: "I had a long trans-Atlantic telephone conversation with the representative of the International Boxing Club in New York last night and I told him that their original offer to stage the fight in New York still goes with me."

"Jack Solomons, the British promoter, has offered Turpin just as much for the fight to take place in London as he has been offered from San Francisco."

"Solomons stood aside so that we could take the better offer from New York, so it is either London or New York for the fight as far as I am concerned. It will not be San Francisco."

"Turpin is champion of the world and Olson is only the American champion. I will not be dictated to by Olson or his manager about the venue of the fight. The original arrangement was New York and we are still ready to go there. Otherwise, it will be London. Solomons takes preference over San Francisco."—Reuter.

NOTICE

THE HONG KONG JOCKEY CLUB

Australian Subscription Poles 1951

The new ponies are expected to arrive on or about 1st August. They will be quarantined in "C" Block for at least three weeks. Their arrival will mean considerable extra work for the Stables Staff and it has therefore been decided that "C" Block will be closed to Members until after the draw, the date of which will be notified in due course, when it may be re-opened at the discretion of the Club's Veterinary Surgeon. Members are asked to co-operate in complying with these temporary arrangements.

Nobody's sweetheart?

BUT IN THE HEART-THROB FIELD
JACK HAWKINS, WITH NEVER A LOVE SCENE, LEADS THE WAY

THIS is the Hawkins Jack Hawkins sees in his morning shaving mirror: an ordinary family man with a home in Putney, But to millions of women at the cinema Hawkins is rugged, reliable, romantic. Especially romantic.

In British film today he is the only hero with a heart-throb appeal to women. And, unlike any other star in the world, he is the only man who means romance — and who seldom plays a romantic scene.

Consider that. In his last ten films Jack Hawkins has had only one part with any semblance of a love story. That was in "The Planter's Wife," with Claudette Colbert. Even then the picture was more concerned with the battle in the Malayan jungle.

Says Hawkins: "That love scene was really a reconciliation with Claudette, who acted my wife."

In everything else he has done recently, from "The Cruel Sea" to "The Intruder," Hawkins has been strictly the man of action with little screen time for the company of women.

Yet today the man who is nobody's film sweetheart has been made a leading romantic figure. By the women. The result is that—

1 HE IS urged to sign contracts by both Rank and Korda.

He has offers for pictures in Canada, New Zealand and Britain.

2 HIS SALARY could be £1,000 a week—if he wanted to earn that much. (He doesn't.)

And now he is going with his wife for a two-week holiday to sort the whole thing out.

After "The Cruel Sea" Hawkins reached the status of a Gregory Peck or a John Wayne. With this difference. While Wayne and Peck are adepts at making love on the screen, Hawkins last played in a love story 20 years ago. "That was in a film, 'The Lost Chord,' with Elizabeth Allan," he says.

In the Tracy style

"No, I'm the wrong age" (he is 42), "and the wrong type for a juvenile lead, and I'm not even the traditional leap-on-a-horse film hero."

"I'd like to play romance in pictures, but my idea would be the Spencer Tracy style of love making. Then the thing would be in keeping with the sort of chap I am."

What sort of chap is Jack Hawkins? A Jet-Age John Bull, he was once called. I maintain he can even make that dull word "dependable" sound exciting.

Nobody's sweetheart, did I say? But everyone's hero. And that's the way to last in films.

A son, with care

GOOD MORNINGS BEGIN WITH MR. HAWKINS Here he is reflected in his shaving mirror.

The ducklings, four days old, and their mother were put in the water. The lights were set.

"Action" called the director. And the ducklings sank.

As they were fished up from the bottom of the canal someone said sadly: "Maybe they're too young to swim." Even the mother was waterlogged.

Background

★ INSPIRATION for cabaret comes from the oldest quarters. Examine the comments of two new-to-cabaret West End acts last week.

Erene Manning, singing in Berkeley Square, is more used to acting on stage or in films.

"What helps me now? Why, my old training as a singer and dancer. Studying Mozart opera teaches you to sing out firmly. Just what is needed on a dance floor."

Aud Johansen, the bright blonde girl from revue, "I wanted something unusual. A 1920 programme at 11.15 p.m. on Sunday."

"It's you're still up you deserve me. . . I want to bed."

Sinking feeling

★ FOR THREE days the film unit was waiting to get a shot on a canal at Camden Town. The scene featured a duck, five ducklings, and Richard Attenborough.

Not for me

★ THOUGHTS that could have been better phrased. Roy Rich, introducing a record programme at 11.15 p.m. on Sunday: "If you're still up you deserve me. . . I want to bed."

FRENCH IRE AROUSED

Paris, July 30. French newspapers today hit back at a critical article on the Indo-Chinese war, published in yesterday's issue of the internationally circulated American magazine Life.

Writer Douglas Duncan, who had just returned from Indo-China, suggested America might have to "buy a larger share in the war" unless she was willing to see the Associated States fall to the Communists.

The French Independent left-wing daily Combat said that, judging from the article, the role of France in the Atlantic Pact was to "use credits allotted to us to build up an infantry capable of defeating the great world strategy of the Pentagon's anti-Communist crusade, to send our young men to be killed in Tonkin to preserve a base against China, lower our already too low standard of living and face heavier and still heavier military obligations."

It is a shame that Mr Duncan, the author of this contemptible article, did not ask to accompany the French commandos who this week attacked Langson and Quang Tri, Auure, another French paper, declared—Reuter.

To Leave Korea

Washington, July 30. The Army Secretary, Mr Robert T. Stevens, announced today that Brigadier-General John K. Waters, former Chief of Staff of the 1st Corps in Korea, will assume new duties with the armored centre, Fort Knox, Kentucky, about September 21.—United Press.

Tough Struggle For Export Markets

British Manufacturers Should Go All Out To 'Get Out And Sell'

The struggle for markets is on. Britain has got to get out and sell now.

For on how much we can export of the products of our factories depends the bread and butter of the people of Britain.

It is not that we are doing so badly, but rather that what we are selling is not enough in our changed circumstances.

NEW YORK FOREIGN EXCHANGES

New York, July 30.
Canada $1.01
England $2.72
Australia $2.72
New Zealand $2.72
South Africa $2.72
Belgium $2.72
France $2.72
Germany $2.72
Italy $2.72
Japan $2.72
Sweden $2.72
Switzerland $2.72
Middle East $2.72
Latin America $2.72
Far East $2.72

What we are up against is a declining trend in exports just when the fight for overseas customers is getting fiercer.

And now we hear of a possible world trade recession in the autumn.

What would happen to our big exporting industries if there is a recession in America?

A shrinkage in world trade just now could certainly mean heavy going for us in the first half of 1954.

For 1953, exports are flowing out were ordered months ago. But if orders fall off later this year, some companies are already saying their order books are down—we shall take the knock a few months hence.

MUST RELEARN
How well equipped are our manufacturers to withstand the onslaught on their markets?

Our products are still as good as—and many of them better than—any in the world. But, as many industrial leaders have stressed—for instance, Lord Ballieu, chairman of Dunlop—we must relearn the art of selling. We must admit that our salesmen and our methods, although the right kinds are to be found, are on the whole not good enough.

The North American market shows what can be done. It suggests, too, that our prices are at present fully competitive.

For there, in the U.S. and Canada, many of our best salesmen, helped by the Dollar Export Council, are month after month hitting new sales records.

Sir William Rootes, chairman of the great Rootes group, standing all day beside his cars at the New York Motor Show and showing his salesmen how to sell, is a fine example of what is needed.

HAVE PLANS
Too often in the holly-disputed markets of Western Europe, South America, the Middle East—and, to a lesser extent, the Commonwealth, potential customers of British firms see too much of the junior salesmen and too little of the top management.

We have lost money orders lately because the buyers have been able to get quick and sure service from the German, Italian, or Dutch managing director, while the British junior salesman has had to refer back to London to find out whether he would extend credits, vary the product, or quicken the delivery date.

The call for good salesmanship is by no means lost on the leaders of industry. The Federation of British Industries are to hold an export sales conference this autumn when they will try to persuade British firms of the need to improve selling methods and after-sales service.

But when this is admitted, we have still to face up to the big question of a possible recession in America, with its inevitable international repercussions. The productive capacity in the U.S. is so huge that anything that happens to the American economy must affect the whole world.

A HAIR
The amount of hire purchase buying in America has grown to immense proportions during inflation. People have bought large amounts of "consumer's durables" like cars, refrigerators, television sets, and, of course, houses.

Without the stimulus of inflation, the American public are more likely to save money to pay off hire purchase debts instead of running up new ones.

The American likes to buy the cars and TV sets offered to him in such abundance, but he can, at a pinch, get along without them if he decides he would rather for the time being keep his money in his pocket.

BOUND TO COME
In other words, an awful lot of goods produced in America are of the "postponable" kind from the consumer's point of view. A down-trend in trade thus started could be necessary to the cessation of many of the "war-time" productions if there is permanent peace in Korea. But, even without that, the post-war boom in America has already lasted much longer than expected and a change is bound to come at some time.

Other countries are affected because America would exercise a downward pull on prices and purchasing power.

If America imports less raw materials and fewer manufactured goods, the countries from whom she buys have less to spend on U.S. products, as also on imports from anywhere else.

EFFECT IN U.K.
In Britain we should feel any recession in both ways.

If the sterling area countries get less for their wool, jute, rubber, tin, cocoa they have fewer dollars to buy cotton and other materials from America.

They in turn also have less money for purchasing manufactured goods from countries like Britain.

There is, however, no doubt that a trade recession in America would be met by remedial financial and economic measures by the U.S. Government.

Western German Output Soaring To New High

(From DENIS MARTIN)

Bonn, July 30.

Western Germany's industrial output continues to soar.

So today I walked under a pall of acrid, drifting fumes into one of her great cellulose and synthetic fibre plants to see how the German people are doing it.

I discovered there has not been a strike here since the war and production has never stopped in a tremendous day and night drive into the markets of the world.

JOHN CLARKE'S CASEBOOK

MINNIE LIES IN

EVER since she was a girl, Minnie has worked in the great, steamy kitchens of hospitals. The work she does is humble enough, but if there were Minnies to do it, hospitals would be nearly as badly off as if there were no great surgeons to glide up in sleek cars and perform operations, or no medical students to stimulate the recruiting of nurses.

Minnie is getting on now. She is not really old in years, but she feels entitled to small considerations by virtue of her long service.

The working day, for those doing Minnie's job in the hospital where she has been for the past four years, begins at seven in the morning.

Minnie some time ago decided this was too early, much too early, for one of her seniority. She took to reporting for duty two hours later.

Having reported for duty, she did very little else through the working day but encourage the earlier birds to greater efforts.

A MONTH'S NOTICE

"Someone really must speak to Minnie," Authority said.

Someone spoke to her.

The following morning Minnie was later than ever reporting for her self-imposed duty of encouraging the others.

"Minnie will have to go," Authority said, defeated.

Minnie was given a month's notice.

The day after her notice expired, Minnie was still in possession of her room in the hostel the hospital provided for its domestic workers. Her successor was on the doorstep downstairs, waiting to take over.

The hospital's security officer was sent to parley with Minnie. He found her knee-deep in packing.

"All right," said Minnie crossly. "I'm going, can't you see?"

The sharp eyes of the security officer did see—he saw some blankets, marked with the hospital's monogram, sticking out from one of Minnie's parcels.

"Bought 'em in the market for seven bob," Minnie snapped. The security officer pulled out the blankets and showed her the next morning.

"Must have packed 'em by mistake," Minnie said.

The security officer found a quilt next.

In due course, the security officer brought to light, besides the blankets and the quilt, three aprons, a pillow-case, a towel, a tin of furniture cream, and a shopping-bag full of assorted cutlery.

The police were called, and Minnie, next morning at Clerkenwell court, pleaded not guilty to the thefts.

she looked said: "I don't want to remand her in custody: that would probably be the last straw for her."

He asked the woman probation officer to talk to Minnie.

"She's nowhere to go," the probation officer presently reported. "and I have grave doubts if she's able to look after herself. She's too young for an old people's home, and too old to get another job easily."

"She's very old for her age, isn't she?" Mr. Powell observed.

He did the kindest thing that could be done: he remanded Minnie for a week for the doctors to see her.

NOT UNFAMILIAR

Minnie was helped from the dock on her way to Holloway prison.

There they would put her in the hospital block: the atmosphere would not be totally unfamiliar, and she would be able to lie-in as late as she liked in the mornings—for the next seven days at least.

Kim Il Sung Decorated

London, July 30.

Prime Minister and Commander-in-Chief of North Korea, was today awarded the title of Hero of the Korean People's Democratic Republic, according to Tass, official Soviet news agency.

The award was made by the President of the Supreme People's Assembly of the Korean People's Democratic Republic, Tass said.

The decree also awarded Marshal Kim Il Sung the Order of the State Flag, First Class, and Gold Star, organizer and leader of the Korean people "in the just patriotic war for liberation against American interventionists, in the name of freedom and independence, for ensuring with his outstanding leadership of the period the Korean People's Army a brilliant victory of the Korean people."

General Peng Teh-hui, Commander of the Chinese "Volunteers" in Korea, has also been made a Hero of the Korean People's Republic, Tass added.

The announcement of the award to General Peng Teh-hui said: "The great Chinese people, raising the holy banner of resistance to American aggression and help to Korea, sent to the Korean front the Chinese People's Volunteer units, who with their blood helped our people to repulse the enemy's aggression and obtain victory."

Cliff Collapses, Kills 6 Children

Singapore, July 31.

Six small children and their pet dog were killed yesterday at Batu Pahat in the south of Johore when a 30-foot-high cliff they were playing under collapsed and buried them alive.

Rescue workers hearing the muffled screams of the children, vainly attempted to dig them out before they suffocated.

Two other children, also playing, escaped—United Press.

THE ROYAL RIVER PAGEANT

FAMILIAR PATTERN IN BULGARIA?

Belgrade, July 30.

Yugopress, semi-official Yugoslav news agency, said tonight that the Central Committee of the Bulgarian Communist Party was considering removing from power Mr. Valko Chervenkov, Bulgarian Premier and Secretary-General of the Party.

It quoted Bulgarian sources as saying there were indications that the post of Premier would go either to M. Georgi Chankov, Minister of the Interior, or to M. Ranko Danyanov, one of the six Vice-Premiers.

Both are members of the Party's Central Committee.

The Central Committee meeting started after M. Chervenkov recently returned from a visit to Moscow and it was still going on.

Yugopress said events in Bulgaria seemed to be taking a parallel course to those in Hungary, where Matyas Rakosi relinquished his leadership of the Government and party immediately after a visit to Moscow—Reuters.

Very Weak Argument

The Hague, July 30.

The Conservative Independent Haagsche Courant says it is doubtful whether there will ever be any relaxation of tension in the Far East as long as Red China is not a member of the United Nations.

It says America's argument that she cannot admit Peking to the United Nations because she has not recognised Mao Tse-tung's regime is a very weak one.

The Ukraine and White Russia are U.N. members, without American having recognised them, Haagsche Courant argues.

It urges that the United States and Britain should get together before the political conference in Korea to seek a minimum common line of conduct on the problem of Communist China's recognition, with which to approach the Soviet Union and Peking China.

"The controversy between London and Washington might otherwise play us a dirty trick," Haagsche Courant says.—Reuters.

DIVORCE CASE ADJOURNED

In the Divorce Court this morning Mrs. Doris Amy May of 6B Broom Road petitioned Mr. C. W. Recco for a dissolution of the marriage to Arthur Frederick May, electrical engineer, on the grounds of adultery.

Proceedings were adjourned sine die to settle the matter of domicile.

Petitioner was represented by Mr. Terence Shurlock instructed by Mr. R. F. G. Dennis.

SCA OFFICERS

It was announced in the Government Gazette today that the following officers of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs have been authorised to exercise the functions of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs relative to the Landlord and Tenant (Amendment) Ordinance, 1953.

Mr. S. T. Kidd, Inspector W. J. D. Cameron and Inspector Tom Pilkington.

The Queen and Duke of Edinburgh on the sailing base at Festival Hall Pier, London, watch as the tableau depicting Anne Boleyn on her journey from Greenwich to the Tower of London, passes. This was part of the great historical Royal River Pageant witnessed by the Queen and her husband.—London Express.

Gazetted Appointments

It was notified in the Government Gazette today that Mr. Alister Drummond has been appointed Superintendent of the Auxiliary Fire Service by H.E. the Governor.

Other appointments listed were: Mr. L. J. McFarlane to be Superintendent of Prisons; Mr. R. J. Ashby to be Chief Officer, Prisons Department; Miss Mary P. L. Chow to be Health Sister, Medical Department; Miss V. N. Brock to be Matron, Class II, Medical Department; Mr. P. C. Woo to be a member of the Traffic Advisory Committee, vice Mr. Fung Ping-tan.

Notice was also given in the Gazette that H.E. the Governor has been pleased to approve the confirmation of the following officers to the permanent and pensionable establishment of the Public Works Department.

RHKDE COMMANDANT

Lieut.-Col. O.F.N. Dunn has assumed the duties of Commandant of the Royal Hongkong Defence Force as from today, during the absence of Col. E.T. Ride, the Government Gazette announces.

The following promotions in the Royal Hongkong Defence Force were also announced: Capt. M.N. Rakusen to be Major; Lieut. F.V.V. Ribeiro to be Captain.

H.E. the Governor has authorised the award of the Volunteer Reserve Decoration to Lieut. Commander W.P. Goodfellow, DSC, of the Hongkong Royal Naval Reserve.

BOY SCOUTS ASSOCIATION

Satisfactory evidence of the following appointments in the Boy Scouts Association, Hongkong Branch, has been furnished to H.E. the Governor, announced the Government Gazette today.

Mr. D. W. Luke to be the Colony Commissioner for a period of three years; Mr. F. E. C. Quah to be Honorary Commissioner as from August 2.

March Revenue And Expenditure

Expenditure exceeded revenue by $27,353,750.88, according to a financial statement for the month of March, published in the Government Gazette today.

Total revenue amounted to $139,267,163.90 while expenditure for the same period came to $166,620,914.84.

Prison Option For Woman Car Owner

A fine of $75 was imposed by Mr. Thomas Tam at Central this morning against Mrs. Hau O-kwan who had been found guilty of owning a car which was unserviceable.

When defendant hesitated about being able to pay the fine, the magistrate said he would give her the option of three weeks' imprisonment.

Sub-Ins. J. E. Collins said that when the Police examined the vehicle, HK3307, they found its body rusted, windows broken, indicators not working, radiator leaking and many other faults with it. They certified it unserviceable.

The defendant said that she was the owner of the car.

Mr. Tam: I fine you $75. Can you pay?

The defendant hesitated and did not answer.

Mr. Tam: Do not think if you keep quiet, I will reduce the fine?

Defendant: Can I pay in a week's time?

Mr. Tam: You either pay $75 or go to gaol for three weeks.

The defendant was then led off by a Policeman.

Obstructive Truck Drivers

That is what is causing so much obstruction in Hongkong—a truck waiting for customers, declared Mr. Thomas Tam at Central this morning when he fined Lau Suck-hong $50 or 14 days for obstruction.

The defendant, who was summoned for obstruction on Morrison Street near Connaught Road, Central, said at the time he was waiting for a customer to load up his truck.

Mr. Tam said that if he had to wait for customers, he should charge them $50 extra.

After fining a number of other lorry drivers for obstruction, Mr. Tam asked Liu Kip, who was summoned for obstruction in Des Voeux Road, Central, how he would feel if two large lorries were placed across Connaught Road, blocking the road.

"I am fining all you lorry drivers to protect your living," said Mr. Tam.

"I only stayed there for five minutes," interrupted Liu Kip.

"Too Long! You are fined $50."
